

Trade is an important factor that is needed in order for a civilization to survive. In the A.I.M. Campaign we strive to increase trade with countries around the world. Our world today is a trade based world meaning that everyone trades with everyone else. There are many organisations that are based on trade and help in order to benefit America. For example a shipping service known as Fedex that many of us know are actually a trading company. They have partnered with the Morning Consult in order to increase to increase the US Economy overall.

I believe that we should increase the trade with foreign countries, and we should be able to help our fellow countries to grow stronger, and to all grow as one in unity. Trade should be engcurranged in our fellow countries, and we should create a bond that can not be broken with new countries. In addition trading with the rest of the world will not only create more jobs in america but also makes job opportunities in every country be trade with.

The United States is the world's largest economy and the largest importer and exporter of goods and services. Trade is critical to our economy, by fueling economic growth, supporting good jobs at home, and helping americans provide for their families with affordable goods and services. US exports support an estimate of 11.3 million jobs.

One of the Americas most well known trading compromises is the NAFTA, which stands for The North American Free Trade Agreement. This is an agreement is between the United States, Canada, and Mexico making it so that they could trade freely with the materials of agriculture, textile, and automobile manufacturing. This deal is kind of what I want to do with america, I want to make an agreement with the counties overseas that have different resources that could be used by consumers here to create finished products and then trade with those countries again. By creating these agreements it would allow america to have resources that they do not have now, meaning they can create new products.

In order for trade agreements to be accomplished, there has to be a mutual agreement between the two or more countries in the trade and this can be the hardest part. I believe that compromises can be made in order to benefit everyone, we just need to trade what is needed and we need to look out for other countries and make it so that everyone is fairly contributing and consuming resources. I think that we should come together in the United Nations and make an agreement between all countries in a way to make agreements to make us more united because the more united we are the less problems we will have. By making these agreements the world can become more united and we can all grow as a whole and not only make our own country grow but everyone grow as a united world. Trade is one of many things that can bring together the world because there will always be the need to trade.
